ANNOUNCEMENT.

TO THE CITIZENS OF GARRARD COUNTY:

At the practically unanimous demand of my own party and urgent sohe paid for this paper. Understand? licitation of other friends, I have at last consented to become a candidate for the office of County Attorney on the Republican ticket.

I had not expected to again ask for the suffrage of my feliow-citizens, and insurance office to Dr. Kinnaird's building, on Danville street, where I but in view of the great number of electors, regardless of their party affiliawill be glad to wait on my customers. | tion, who have seen proper to insist on my nomination, I have, with some re-Fine line of clothing samples, fits luctance, consented to accede to their request.

In thus again asking the citizens of my county for their support for this, one of the most important offices in the gift of ist people, I am not unmindful of the fact that it is an office fraught with the gravest responsibilities and duties, it having not only an important influence on the maintainance of peace and good order throughout the county, but is also perhaps, the most important factor in shaping and controlling the amount of taxes that your Fiscal Court finds it necessary to levy on your property each year to meet the current expenses of your county affairs.

And in this connection, I hope I may be pardoned for referring with some pride to my former administration of this important duty during the term I had the honor to occupy the office, and when, after my repeated assaults on all useless extravagance, and on certain most time honored leaks in your county treasury, the levy necessary to meet all the current expenses of your county, and then leave a handsome surplus in your treasury at the close of the year, was less than one-third, barely more than one-fourth, of the amount of each and every successive levy for county purposes made since my retirement from that position.

And since the late decision of the Court of Appeals that the Court of cash and in a few days received a copy the city of Lancaster no longer has jurisdiction to try whisky cases, and with blind tigers not only flourishing throughout the county but, with their Government Licenses all over the corporate limits of Lancaster, actually boasting of their dispensing to your sons, each and every week, three barrels of whisky and over two thousand bottles of beer, with the county attorney being hereafter practically the only safeguard to prevent their extending their sphere, Dr. Hobson, the dentist, will be at dry goods, shoes, gents' furnishing and running even wider open than now,—this office is of even greater importthe Garrard Hotel every second Mon-goods, etc., and they will be opened in ance than ever before to such of our parents as wish to protect their boys from this most vicious and destructive influence, and it well behooves them to make no mistake in selecting and deciding who shall hereafter say whether this condition of things shall continue to exist.

> With a high conception of the duties of this office, with a higher conception of my obligation to my own and my neighbor's sons, having steadtastly during the twenty-two years of my law practice refused to defend the keeper of a blind tiger, nor in the thirty-nine years of my existence taken a drink of whisky, if honored again by your election to this high trust, I pledge you, that whatever of experience, ability or talent I may possess, shall be exerted to so administer its important duties as to not only encourage and promote peace and good order and a strict obedience to the law throughout the county, but also to prevent any and all illegitimate, Improper and unnecessary drains and expenses on your county treasury.

> Fearing that pressing business engagements, and the limited time left for my can vass may prevent my seeing each of you personally, I take this method of announcing my candidacy and assuring you that if my candidacy meets with your approval, I shall be very grateful for whatever assistance you may render toward promoting my election. Respectfully,

TIMELY ADVICE.

As the election in Garrard will continue to warm up, we think the following timely advice, from the Democrat to the people of Lincoln, is well people as quite a valuable present, for worth the careful and prayful perusal it brings to its new wearer luck, or, at of some of our would-be shooters. Two candidates at Stanford came to blows last week, and, of course, friends of both men "rubber-necked" in. Speaking of the affair, the Democrat says:

The scrap between the candidates into pieces or hidden. When it is hid- ready to jump in and fight their best of being called a respectable citizen wili neither give nor take "sass," but will attend to his own business. If he don't do it, then he gets into trouble. There is a time-we know not pie in this section of the state for when, a piace, we know not wherewhen a man can say more than he ought to. * * * One life is worth much more than all the Lincoln courty offices. One soul sent unprepared to its account, to linger through an ever-enduring eternity in a roasting, seething, unquenchable fire of brimstone—sent to hell fighting over poiltlcs, which is another name for the region of the damned, is worth much more than all the Lincoln county offices combined. What ought to be done using two bottles of it he is almost en- year man at an insane asylum. Figis for every man really interested in a procession estimated to be one mile in give him a statistical knockout. A paign. * * * Fighting is a bad way healthy man eats, on a conservative to electioneer. Had the belligerents been armed Tuesday doubtless there would have been bloodshed. Another blot might have marred the reputation of Kentucky, the "Dark and bloody ground." We honestly believe that any man who will try to get up a fight in the county at this time is a traitor to his country, to his friends, to his church and to his party. * * If any man don't see as you do, don't fight him. Don't reach for your gun. That is lawful only in self-defense. Attend to your business, Democrats and Republicans; let the other fellow believe what he pleases, but if you can't convince him by argument that he is wrong, don't shoot him. Let's political problems like gentlemen. If the people of Stanford and Lincoln county will resolve individually and collectively to always remember that "he that is without sin should cast the first stone," and that to make a citizen about another, unless there are hundreds of witnesses to the foundation of the publication, strangers W S. BEAZLEY. would be looking to Stanford as a city on a hill. What every man and womwants is that people of other States the Boo illzed, and not believe from publications that Lincoln county has plenty of Ignorance and that some are bloodthirsty. We have the interest of individuals of Lincoln at heart, regardless of party affiliations, church member

Col. Andrew J. Rice.

The illness of Col. Andrew J. Rice which has been mentioned in THE RECORD for several issues, came to an end at the family residence, in Lower Garrard, Friday night when he passed peacefully into the Great Beyond. For many years that dread disease, rheumatism, had caused him Intense pain, and only temporary relief was found ville, Ind., and to many resorts which afforded rellef to other sufferers, but none ever gave him but the slightest ease. Although he suffered almost constantly, he seldom complained ting out were entertained. Col. Rice coat off his back and give it to a friend if that friend was in need," and this remark tells just the character of man that he was. He had one brother, Col. Robert Rice, and a sister, the former having died some years since. He was twice married, the first wife being a sister of 'Squire Ike Myers. To the first union were born three children. two of whom are living, Robert and Jake, the former residing in Texas, and the latter in Missouri. His second wife was Miss Mary Mock, of Boyle county, who, with five sons, Howard, Virgil, Dolph, Victor and Wilson, sur

Brain-Food Nonsense. Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authoritles. They have dispelied the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for brains. A correct diet wiil not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. He gathered them up and power a man will as surely and steadily work his way toward lleaven as the transatlantic steamer plows the ocean toward the port which is its manifest destination.

If you are convinced that there is neither honor among men nor virtue among women, that honesty need not stand in the way of acquisition, but is only valuable as a blind to help you the easier to attain your end, then I can trust my forecast of what you will be in middle life just as I can trust in the law of cause and effect. Never a stone was thrown into the The owner asks $1,800. The timber air which could defy gravitation and continue its journey at its own pleasturies, and is as black and hard as ma- ure. There is no such stone wandering through space. Every one that has gone up has been inexorably arrested by the law and has sooner or later come back to the earth with a thud. And never a man has cherished mean or selfish thoughts and reached a high spiritual level. He may begin with the defiant consciousness of strength, but he learns at last that he is not master of the universe, and he will by and by sit in sackcloth and ashes to repent his error of judgment. This is only another way of saying that God has not vacated the throne, but still reigns in full supremacy.

Religion, then, is the architect of fortune. I am not speaking of your creed, which, like your overcoat, may be taken off and laid aside without making any change in your manhood; neither do I refer to the form of worship which is best adapted to your temperament, for religion is independent of both. I have in mind those mighty ideas with which the New Testament throbs like the heart of a giant, those moral principles which have brought order out of the chaos of human passion and given us an ideal which is as clear to our mental vision as Orion in he wintry sky, blazing with a light that fills earth and Heaven with glory. Religion means your surrender to the wisdom of God, the demand, packed and sustained by the energy and love in which all planets and systems are submerged, that you shall do what you know to be right, sure that in the end your very sacrifices will produce more happiness than mere wealth ever dreamed of purchasing. Religion neans an appreciation, fostered and maintained by the convictions of your most thoughtful hours, that sturdy manliness and the serenity of soul which is the result thereof are worth more to you as a child of immortality than political influence or fame or the grand total of all things which you ver coveted. With such a conviction as that, as ecessary to the true soul as fresh air to the blood, you are equipped for he struggle of life as was the young sir knight who knelt at the cathedral altar and dedicated his sword and his good right arm to the service of God. That conviction is the mint's stamp on the coin which gives it its value. To be in doubt on this subject is to be like all her thin friends about it and the child who is afraid in the dark, he knows not at what. We need to be sure that right is right, that the Almighty is always with the right, as sure as the marine is that his compass will never fail him, and then we can be peaceful and undisturbed by the "crash of worlds."

Life may bring what it will, there is another life in which the crooked shall be straightened out. We may weep, as who does not, but it is only the surface of the ocean that is ruffled by the storm, while beneath is eternal calm. Death loses its terror and we no longer shrink in dread, for it is only God's servant sent to usher us into the eternal light wherein they dwell who have parted from us in sorrow and who wait to give us welcome.

Religion is all that and much mor that cannot be expressed.—George H. Hepworth, in N. Y. Herald.

DISCOVERED BILL NYE.

Western Man Who Claims to Have Early Appreciated the Famous

Col. Bill Root, of Laramic. Wyo., is probably entitled to the credit of havng "discovered" Bill Nye, the humorist. Root now has charge of the Indian village at the pan-American exo'clock p. m., at the Christlan position, and tells the following story

"'Bill Nye,' when he was a young man, wasn't much: in fact, folks in Laramie wondered whether he would eventually dry up and blow away or just die of plain starvation. Things never would come his way, and that same way led through many rocky places. Everything to which he turned his hand seemed to wither under it. and he began to think that he was a hoodoo

"Bill was a pretty discouraged sort of a chap when I said to him and his wife one day: 'Come out to the ranch. and stay with me for awhile,' and they came. Long before this time Frances, Bill's wife, had made up her mind that Bill was cast in the mold of a lawver. and nothing would do but Bill must study law. So Bill came along with his old books and would wander around the ranch trying to imbibe ozone and pages of Blackstone. But the cankervorm of worry was in his mind and the ozone and several of the things I had in a cupboard seemed to do little

It Is Said Men's Hands Lose Their Cunning When They Reach Two Score Years.

Long after a man's hands have eased to do the bidding of the mind that directs them his mind retains its full measure of vigor. Instances are numerous of men who have reached the allotted age of life continuing in the activities of the world as long as those activities are of the brain and not of the hand. But the mechanic's highest skill is shown when he is between the ages of 30 and 40. After the latter age his hand been taught to work he can continue to labor and may even surpass the earning power of his hand. After 40 the muscles do not respond nearly as the greatest amount of happiness, certainly and readily to the orders and the willingness of the brain,

NEW FATTENING FAD.

Strict Regimen of Banauas Results in Curing Nervous Dyspepsia and Makes Flesh.

A lady who was recently so ill of nervous dyspepsia as to be in bed, and in the lavatory after dinner. It happened so thin that she gave up all hope of that Barnard and Merridew were the only ever getting fat, secured a new doc-tor who used her for an average of that Barnard and Merridew were the only tor who used her for an experiment in diet. He placed her upon a strict regimen of bananas, nothing else, says the New York Herald.

The result was marvelous. She grew to really like them, when prepared by baking and served with sugar and cream, or cold, in the form of delicate jelly. She also had banana fritters and biscuit made of banana flour. Daily she grew more plump and rosy, and now she is well, and expects to stay. Bananas contain starch in its most easily assimilated form. Homeopathic doctors have for some years called this tropical fruit unwholesome, but it is only indigestible when unripe. most bananas arrive here and are eaten in a green state, cooking is necessary to develop their valuable nutri-

A SLIPPERY SHOT.

BY PAUL BLAKE,

"There, now, you stupid imp, you've inked my fingers all over!"
"Never mind, go and clean them. Hurry up; you've only just time!"
The aggrieved boy, Ton Barnard, gave a hurried look at the clock, and then dived out of the schoolroom down the passage which led me to the lavatory. It lacked only three minutes before the bell would soun for school!! There was no time to be lost.

When he entered the lavatory, he found his friend Merridew busily scrubbing away at one of the basins.

"Shy me over the soap," he cried, taking his stand before a basin and turning on the tap full. "Look sharp!" Though time was such an object, Merridew could not resist that most delightful of sensations, the squeezing of a piece of wet soap in his hand and letting it gradually slip out between his tingers and his thumb. How it travels! What curious excursions it makes!

Merridew tried to shoot the slippery mis sile to his friend. But it is about as diffi cult to fire wet soap by compression as to throw a boomerang, and it was no matter of surprise to either of them to see the soar ject. Merridew rushed forward and picked "One more shot!" he cried. "I'll fire straight this time."

At that moment the turret clock gave its well-known preliminary wheeze. It may have unsettled Meridew's aim. Whatever the cause, the unfortunate fact remained that the soap flew straight through the window, breaking a pane of glass. The broken pieces of glass fell into the courtyard below; a juvenile voice shouted up: "Hullo, you fellows, won't you catch it!" then the steps of an approaching master were heard, and the boys fled towards the schoolroom, their wet hands thrust into

It was a summer afternoon, so in a few minutes all discomfort arising from their condition ceased. The old clock ceased striking, the passage doors were locked, and school began. Neither of the boys, however, felt quite at ease. Merridew anticipated unpleasant questions arising from the broken window and the soap, which would be discovered in the yard. Barnard was aware that when his inky hands were seen it would mean 50 lines. However, by keeping them in his pockets as much as possible, and putting them hehind him when he stood up to construe, avoided the master's eye and saved

The first hour rolled slowly by, and the time came to change classes. The two boys were in the same form, and sat next each other, not infrequently giving each other assistance. But in this particular studyassistance, age og a proper age of a proper ag afternoon was no exception; he ran off the names of the principat towns on the Volgariver with facility, and when his turn came next to give the principal heights of the Ilimalayas everyone knew that the ques-tion was a mere trifle for Barnard. What was the surprise of the class to hear iim mutter something about 3,000 feet.

This was utterly wrong, as even Jorkins, the dunce of the class, could tell. "Come. Barnard," said the master, kindly, "you caunot have heard what I asked. Try again. The heights of the principal mountains of the Himalaya range?"

In vain; Barnard was unable to collect his thoughts; he grew red, stammered, and then sat down helplessly.

"Next boy," said the master. As soon as it was safe to do so, Merridew whispered to his chum:

"What on earth's the matter?" "Look up at the other end of the room, was the frightened response.

The room was a long one. At the end nearest the door was the doctor's throne: classrooms opened ont at intervals along the walls; while at the end farthest from the entrance was held the class of which Barnard and Merridew were members.

cause of his friend's distress. But it soon became apparent. Underneath the door slowly ran a small stream of water, spreading itself when it met an obstruction, and must have left the tap running. I know I turned it full on to wash, and your sending that soap through the window made me forget to turn it off again. I never thought of water coming under the door. What can I do?"

Thus it happens that on the third day after a hard storm with fulmination and pyrotechnics, the eatch is phenomenal, whereas on the first or travel all along the passage before it can get here. The doctor must see it in a minute.

TASTING OF LIQUORS.

There la Known to Be a Good Deal of Humbug in the Expert Palate Claim, Stories about the delicate "taste" of those who claim to be wine experts are always interesting. Recently we came across one in which Goethe figures, says the Buffalo Commercial. At a small party at the court of Weimar the marshal asked permission to submit a nameless sample of wine. Accordingly a red wine was circulated, tasted, and much commended. Several of the company prononneed it Burgundy, but could agree as to the special vintage of the year. Goethe alone tasted and tasted again, shook his head, and, with a meditative air, set his glass on the table.

"Your excellency appears to be of a different opinion," said the court marshal. "May I ask what name you give the wine?

"The wine, said the poet, "is quite unknown to me, but I do not think that it is a Burgundy, I should rather consider it a good Jena wine that has been kept for some while in ı Maderia cask.' "And so, in fact it is," said the court marshal.

There is a great deal of humbug in this wine tasting and "expert palate" in liquors. We have seen several men smacking their lips over some "real old" whisky from a bottle labeled 1843, and discussing what the effect of the aging had been, when the real facts were that it was very ordinary whisky put into a bottle labeled as above the night before by some one who wanted to test the "experts."
